

Career & Technical Education Resource Specialists

In Denver Public Schools, students in CTE programs receive additional support through CTE Resource Specialists in several high schools. Funding for these positions is through a Carl Perkins federal grant. This grant stipulates that the specialists work with students enrolled in CTE classes. For this reason, the specialists are expected to work almost exclusively with students enrolled in Alternative Cooperative Education, Business Education, Marketing, Drafting, and Engineering/Project Lead the Way classes, as well as various classes at CEC Middle College. Students are given the opportunity to visit community college campuses and related business and industry sites. They can also participate in school-based activities such as guest speakers, seminars, and career fairs.

Below is a list of the CTE Resource Specialists for the 2009/2010 school year.
